

Navigating DORA Compliance with Ease

Discover how FUJIFILM Kangaroo archiving solutions can empower your business.

What is DORA?

The Digital Operational Resilience Act (DORA) is an EU regulation aimed at enhancing the digital operational resilience of financial institutions. DORA came into effect in early 2025 and is designed to ensure that companies in the financial sector can withstand cyberattacks and other digital disruptions, maintaining the continuity of critical services.

How will DORA impact your Business?

DORA will have significant implications for organisations in the financial sector. It sets out a comprehensive framework for managing risks associated with the increased digitalisation of the financial sector and the dynamic cyber threat landscape. Non-compliance is not an option. The European Supervisory Authorities (ESAs) can impose fines of up to 2% of a firm's total annual worldwide turnover, with individuals facing fines up to €1,000,000.

To comply with DORA, you must identify and evaluate your ICT risks, establish a process for managing ICT incidents, and develop the necessary skills to monitor and track these incidents effectively. The regulation also requires regular digital resilience testing and audits, as well as robust third-party risk management.
